

Project funded

HUNTER researchers secured $375,000 in funding for a project that looks at how to reduce unnecessary pathology tests in hospitals.

It was one of 10 new grants handed out nationally by The HCF Research Foundation.

The money will go to the University of Newcastle and Hunter Medical Research Institute.